LETTERS to the Editor

All letters must be signed; names will be withheld if requested.

Sir:

I'm getting tired of picking up every issue only to find someone fault-finding New York TV productions, then claiming Chicago shows far superior. It sounds very much as though Chicago has an inferiority complex and has to keep blowing their own horn to keep their courage up. . . . The only show that Chicago can truly be proud of is Kukla, Fran & Ollie.

Racine, Wis. MRS. M. MARTIN

Sir:

Have you ever noticed the electric sign which always seems to hang over Ernie Simon's head on his 10 P.M. show? It says "NUTS" but I like him anyhow.

Chicago, Ill. JIM R. DELANEY

Sir:

Was it just my imagination or did I see two of Kay Kyser's "Honeydreamers" on Fred Waring's show?

Harvard, Ill. BILL PERINCHIO

Ed. Note: The Honeydreamers split up; two went to Kyser, two stayed behind for the John Conte show.

Sir:

I saw your column on the Zoomerang Gun and would like to know where one can purchase same. I would like to present it to a four year old boy who is in bed, due to polio.

Aurora, Ill. MRS. C. C. MUNRO

Ed. Note: Tigrett Enterprises, notified of this case, immediately rushed out a free Zoomerang to Mrs. Munro. The toys are on sale at most drug stores.

Sir:

Aside to Jack Mabley: Your piece on Jack Carter is deserving of the highest compliments and I must add mine.

Chicago, Ill. ARDEN LE CLERE

Sir:

He's so wonderful. . . . Could I see him more often? Jim Tree, of course! All in all—your TV Forecast program is a WOW!

Chicago, Ill. MRS. FRANKLIN MILLER

Sir:

One question: Are Jerry Lester and Dagmar husband and wife??

Chicago, Ill. MR. & MRS. RAY FREEMAN

Ed. Note: Nope, says Mrs. Jerry Lester.

Sir:

I am sure that many parents will agree with me that there are too many cheap western films being shown at a time when our children can watch them. There will be no more of them seen in my home.

Hammond, Ind. MRS.VALERIE LOVISON

ON THE COVER

Chico Marx is the star of WENR-TV's weekly comedy, "The College Bowl" seen Mondays on channel 7. This is a show for the entire family, highlighted by one of the famous Four Marx Brothers.

NEXT WEEK • "Your Figure, Ladies"

Women readers of TV Forecast will want to buy next week's magazine to read Paul Fogarty's suggestion on slimming down. Fogarty, who is shown above with assistant Marilyn Hampton, illustrates an easy exercise that can be done daily in the home. Look for TV Forecast on sale at all leading newsstands. "Your Figure, Ladies" is seen on WGN-TV.

CHANNEL ONE

NEW YORK — Television's singing Cinderella is the beautiful Mary Mayo, overnight a star on CBS-TV as a result of a pretty well-known guy himself, Frankie Sinatra . . . Mary, a North Carolina songstress, was down to her last $1.32 when a certain Chuck Goldstein hired her to sing with Four Chicks and Chuck, jingle-jugglers. That's when Frankie discovered her . . . Note to the bachelors: she's married to Al Ham, former arranger and bass player for Tex Beneke . . . Two New Jersey residents who live near the powerful Voice of America transmitters are picking up programs beamed to Europe on their video sets!

LUCKEY

One of the newest names in Chicago is Luckey North . . . We first met the attractive commentator two months ago when she visited Chicago and dined in the Pump Room . . . From Washington, D. C., Luckey already is causing a few headspins.

Big Bear Lake in Southern California is the scene of Art Linkletter's camp for boys and girls . . . Another Jesse Owens is in the spotlight. No relation to the former Olympic champ and member of the National TV Review Board, the new Jesse is a baritone singing with Horace Heidt of CBS . . . We're still trying to figure out the recent choice of Jan "Songs for Sale" Murray, as one of the 10 most handsome men in the country . . . Has the newest craze swept your hometown yet? It's "Hopalong Canasta," created by ole Hoppy hisself . . . "Wedding Day" begins Nov. 12 with hostess Patricia Vance and Vin Gottschalk on WBKB . . . Actual ceremony on TV! . . . Arthur Godfrey is a generous old soul. He's letting his vaudeville unit use his DC-3, complete with crew, to fly them all over the country . . . Sponsors would give anything to telecast tennis matches starring the controversial Gussie Moran. Miss Moran's lace panties may cause a new TV crisis, if video rights are gained.

Jimmy Durante inspired Chicago artist Martin Blank to draw this caricature . . . Kathi Norris, popular New Yawk video personality, is the first woman inducted as "Fall Guy" by the Circus Saints & Sinners . . . One of the hardest working guys plugging the National Guard is Guy Lombardo.

DURANTE

One of the awards Ralph Edwards prizes the most is the citation presented to him by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults . . . "Broadway Open House" is seen on 57 TV stations, reportedly the most widely circulated show in television . . . Herb Shriner, the Hoosier wit, is wowing them at the Mocambo in Hollywood, but secretly he yearns for a return to network TV . . . This bit of news may have exploded before we get into print, but Jack Oakie stands a good chance of starring in a variety show soon.

Mabley "Dreams Up" $500,000 TV Show

By JACK MABLEY

Have you ever dreamed up your dream television show? I spent nearly half a million dollars on one the other night.

My dream show opened with a telecast of the pro football championship game between the Bears and the Giants, with Joe Wilson and Jack Brickhouse doing the play by play.

The game ended at 5:30, and the following hour was taken over by Howard Barlow's orchestra, playing dinner music—no singing—while I ate a steak.

At 6:30 Kukla, Fran and Ollie did a 20-minute show with a guest named Sweet William. From 6:50 to 7 Clifton Utley summarized the news. Conspicuously absent from this segment was a trip through a coal mine.

From 7 until 8:30 there was a dramatic show, produced by Worthington Miner, and starring Gertrude Lawrence, Helen Hayes, Geraldine Brooks, and Robert Montgomery. From 8:30 to 10:30 there was a variety show. Jerry Lester was master of ceremonies, and he had to promise to throw away his script two minutes before the show.

Highlights of this show were a demonstration of how to lead an orchestra by Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis; a discussion of television by Dave Garroway and Fred Allen; 15 minutes with Studs Terkel in his old saloon; a cooking lesson by Ransom Sherman; dances by Valerie Bettis and the Hamilton trio; a five-minute lecture on football by Coach Cliff Norton; and songs by Dinah Shore, Patti Page, Bette Chapel, Connie Russell, Perry Como and the Fontaine Sisters.

The music was by Joe Gallichio's orchestra. The drama came from New York; the rest of the show from Chicago.

Do you think we'll ever see the day?

I'm beginning to understand why such high-priced radio comedians as Bob Hope and Jack Benny wanted (and got) Dinah Shore on their television premiers. Any show with Dinah Shore on it is a good show.

In addition to a lovely voice and appearance, Miss Shore's personality is perfect for television. Only Fran Allison can match her in lighting up a room with warmth which the television camera so strangely projects.

I say strangely because I'm still a little overwhelmed that the mess of wires, metal, and glass that is a TV camera can bring into my living room not just the image but the inner beauty and spark of such people as Dinah Shore and Fran Allison.

They're not entertainers at all on television. They're friends—very personal friends.

We've done a lot of sniping at NBC for what appeared to be an inflexible formula for hour-long comedy shows. They tried to fit every comedian to their set variety routine. They soon discovered that each show has to be tailored to fit the individual comedian. Very much to NBC's credit, the second time around on their comedy series has been an improvement.

This is particularly true of the Martin and Lewis and Fred Allen shows. It has been conceded all along that NBC had the right idea in spacing each comedian at four-week intervals.

After a year of ironing out the kinks, by next season these Sunday and Wednesday night NBC comedy hours probably will be—week in and week out—the best entertainment on the air.

"Now, now, boys . . . don't argue. Maybe Howdy Doody isn't as funny as Kukla, Fran & Ollie."

Dan Spink

THE WAILING SYRIAN

He Hasn't Forgotten Chicago—Danny Thomas

"Whatever I am today, I owe to St. Jude—"

These are words uttered by a man who, before the public, is very funny—off-stage, a serious-minded Syrian who hasn't forgotten Chicago. Now a television star, Danny Thomas is a revolving constellation on WNBQ, a constellation in a comic firmament which also stars Jack Carson, Ed Wynn and Jimmy Durante.

Danny Thomas confided in us that that there were days he had cause to wail. That was ten years ago when he was out of a job. One day he received an offer to officiate as master of ceremonies at a Chicago night spot called the 5100 Club. Known then by his real name of Amos Jacobs (anglicized from the Syrian "Yahoob"), he put together the names of two or his eight brothers, emerged with "Danny Thomas," and started what was originally scheduled as a week's stint.

Toward the end of the week he asked the 5100 Club's owner, Harry Eager, to let him off for one show on Saturday night so that he could see an important night baseball game. Eager, logically enough, refused. When Thomas appeared before the patrons, however, he wore a long face, shouted anathema at Eager, moaned about slave-labor conditions, and finally, in the best tradition of his Syrian forebears, wrapped a white tablecloth around his head and emitted a baleful, haunting wail.

The audience howled with delight. Harry Eager laughed heartily. And Danny Thomas's week-long engagement stretched into three years. He developed a tragi-comic personality that made both him and the 5100 Club famous.

Thomas was born in Deerfield, Mich., on January 6, 1915. He grew up with his eight brothers and one sister in Toledo, Ohio. A mimic from the beginning, he came in contact with people of widely varied national extractions. Today his Yiddish is perfect, his Italian-American faultless and a half-dozen other dialects unmistakable from the real thing.

At high school in Toledo he directed a student review, progressed to local banquets at $2 a night, and "eventually worked up," he says, "to making $6 a week."

When he was 20, he left home and hitched a ride to Detroit. He landed an acting job with a radio station, made a local name for himself as a night club entertainer, and married a pretty 17-year-old girl, Rosemary, whom he met on a children's radio program.

Everything was not beer and skittles for the young couple, however.

"Whatever I am today," he says, "I owe to St. Jude."

And Thomas is completely sincere in his belief that the patron saint of the theater is responsible for his popularity today. This loyalty stems from an incident which occurred during the lean days prior to 1940. He was out of a job, and almost penniless. He and Rosemary had a year-old baby to think about.

Danny was in Chicago, dejectedly walking the streets one dark night. He was assailed by doubts about his professional ability as an entertainer. Suddenly he found himself opposite a church. He entered, lit a candle to St. Jude, and went home to Rosemary and the baby.

Within a week his momentous 5100 Club engagement materialized. He promptly acquired the largest personal following of any entertainer in Chicago, and offers from other outstanding night clubs poured in. But Thomas stayed with Harry Eager, because he liked him and liked the club.

Finally he was persuaded to leave for La Martinique in New York. Next, he entertained abroad for the Armed Forces. When he returned in 1944, Fanny Brice brought him to her radio show, on which he created the renowned character of Jerry Dingle. He earned his own radio show two years later, and Hollywood came knocking at the door. His pictures have included "The Big City," "The Unfinished Dance," and "Call Me Mister."

When he's not in New York for NBC television's "Four Star Revue," Thomas lives in Beverly Hills with Rosemary and their three children—Margaret, 11; Theresa, 7, and Charles Anthony, almost 2.

Although the Wailing Syrian has lost his wail, he hasn't forgotten St. Jude. He never turns down a benefit performance. He entertains at Veterans' Administration hospitals in every city in which he has a night club date. And he is building a shrine to his patron saint: a hospital for paraplegics and TB patients in Alabama.

Dr. Crane Believes "In Roughing It!"

Dr. George W. Crane, who recently took over the duties of moderator on WGN-TV's "Your Problem Panel" (Mondays, channel 9) looks back on a long career in both radio and newspaper work as one of the country's most outstanding psychologists and counselors.

His syndicated newspaper column, "The Worry Clinic," has appeared in the Chicago Tribune for years, and his radio series was a WGN feature until about two years ago.

DR. CRANE

Although born in Chicago, George Crane spent most of his youth in Fort Wayne, Ind., where his parents ran a combination grocery and bakery. He majored in psychology at Northwestern University and became an instructor while studying for his masters degree.

After his Ph.D., he decided to work for a medical degree, and while in medical school he taught night school at Northwestern, wrote a textbook, and launched his radio column.

In his private life he has found an interesting way to spend his summers. Believing that his children should be given the advantages of country life and the fun of "roughing it," Dr. Crane and his family have a summer home in rural Indiana made out of old railroad cars. They sleep in a reconverted refrigerator car, live in the parlor car, and eat in a caboose. Heading his happy family of five children and charming Mrs. Crane, the doctor actively participates in his community's social life, teaching a Sunday school class and lecturing in meetings of many organizations.

"Your Problem Panel" consists of three members who are chosen from various walks of life, but who are all well qualified to serve in an advisory capacity helping people to solve their own problems. The series is sponsored by the Komiss Co., and is produced by Jules Pewowar for the Herbert S. Laufman Company.

No Blood & Thunder In This Kid's Show

Winning the approval of parents and educators is "Sandy Strong," recent addition to WENR-TV's shows for children, seen Monday thru Friday, from 5:15 to 5:30 p.m. on channel 7. The creation of Sam Singer, the program is under the sponsorship of Ovaltine.

Sandy is a sandy-haired, freckle-faced, typical American boy who finds adventure through his friendship with Mr. Mack, a retired circus clown.

Sandy Strong & Mr. Mack

Among Sandy's puppet friends who appear are Glitter Starr, a charming little girl; Fishy Tailor, a youngster addicted to telling tall stories, and Shaggy, a talking dog who doesn't have much to say.

Special sets have been designed by Mr. Singer to create the illusion that the puppet characters are life-size. Original music to score the show is being written by Porter Heaps; scripts are by George B. Anderson and direction by Tony Rizzo.

"Sandy Strong" sells the idea of child health while entertaining its audience with high adventure. The absence of objectionable "blood and thunder" sequences, typical of Singer's children's shows, is expected to win the approval of parents and educators.

Secret Service In Border Incident

Don Brown, film director for ABC-TV's new Treasury Men In Action series, took his company to Alpine, N. J., to make film sequences for the show recently. One shot was to picture the criminals racing for the Mexican border, and to heighten the suspense, Brown posted a sign around the corner from a gas station reading—"Gas ahead. Last chance before border!" When ready to shoot the scene, Brown's crew was log-jammed by a lineup of startled motorists, all with out-of-state license plates. They had all seen the sign and were frantically consulting their road maps. . . .

Tee Vee Notes

You may chuckle at those pork-and bean commercials on the John Conte show, but the NBCrooner is no amateur at cooking . . . Jerry Lester wonders if there are any bean bags yet to discover. He already owns thousands, some of which are made of asbestos, chocolate, sable and even mink . . . Martha Raye, video comedienne, has just sold her Hollywood home to Doris Day . . . The three most telegenic shoulders belong to Maureen O'Hara, Linda Darnell, and Ann Sheridan . . .

Nobody Here But Us Kids!

By UNCLE HERBIE

This last week my own two youngsters and I visited the Museum of Science and Industry, which is located at 57th Street and South Shore Drive in Chicago. It's easy to drive and park there. You can take a bus, a street car or you can ride the Illinois Central suburban railroad.

And what do you suppose we had the most fun doing? You guessed it! We played with the television exhibit more than anything else in that whole, great big, fascinating museum. This is the fun you can have when you visit the place: You can act in front of a television camera. Your parents or friends can sit in a small television theater. When you step in front of the camera your picture is carried to the screen of the television set in the theater. So your parents or friends can see you!

Then you can send your parents or friends out in front of the television camera and you can sit in the theater and see them! Golly, but we did enjoy that.

My boy and girl made faces at me and I saw them on the television screen. Then I went out to the camera and made faces at them while they sat in the theater. You should have heard them yelp!

Now, of course, there is more to it than simply making faces at one another! The whole television exhibit, just like the museum itself, is an instructive and fascinating place. You'll really see just how television works. And you can press buttons yourself to make it work! So do visit the Museum of Science and Industry soon. Children are welcome down there, and they do have great fun.

This week's contest? Well, this is it: the youngster who makes the most words from UNCLE MISTLETOE wins one dollar! Second prize 50 cents; third and fourth prizes 25 cents each. Send in your entry within a week to Uncle Herbie, TV Forecast, 185 N. Wabash, Chicago 1.

FACES AND PLACES IN CHICAGO

This is Chicago . . . gay November nights enhanced by the performances of television stars currently appearing in smart hotel revues and supper club programs. . . . Cafe society visiting with video celebrities relaxing between shows. . . . A visit to the Boulevard Room of the Stevens finds Harold and Marie Isbell, proud parents of twin-arrivals, toasting to the event. . . . Our favorite headwaiter "Phil" escorts us to the best seats for an outstanding ice show. It's fun to take off an evening from TV or business, and do the town.

TONI RODGERS & GUESTS

. . . We also like the gay idea of the Stevens, a Sunday family matinee, with special menus for the children. . . . More good news: Wayne King is playing at the Edgewater Beach hotel. . . . You'll see your TV favorite plus Harry Hall, Gloria Van, Jackie James and the King ensemble . . . Dancing to the Waltz King is always an experience. . . . It's a heavy schedule for the busy video star seen Thursdays on WNBQ. . . . Our photographer found Toni Rodgers of WGN-TVery busy talking one night with her guests, Shirley Booth, and Sydney Blackmer of "Come Back, Little Sheba," at a table in the very fashionable and lovely College Inn Porterhouse of the Sherman. . . . It didn't take the group long to go western with a bang. . . . There will be more roundups of VIPeople in VIPlaces in later columns . . . See you again!

Story Of Helen Jackson

THE story of Helen Jackson is a very unusual one. It's a story of courage and perseverance, of success against odds. It's the story of a girl who is making her own way in life in spite of a considerable handicap.

Helen Jackson is 15 years old and is a subscription agent for TV Forecast. She conducts a thriving magazine business from her home at 1425 South 13th Ave. in Maywood. She does this in spite of the fact that she is confined to a wheelchair.

Helen was stricken with infantile paralysis in the epidemic of 1943, when she was only eight years old. She was in the hospital nine months and spent her ninth birthday there. She returned home the following spring.

The Infantile Paralysis Foundation arranged to send Helen to the Spalding School, a school for handicapped children. Spalding is a large, rambling building located at Washington and Ashland here in Chicago. It is equipped with ramps, elevators and other special devices designed to make the children as independent as possible.

The children are very considerate of one another; it is one of the first things you notice. Helen has been there since the fourth grade. Being among other handicapped persons makes her accept her own problem more readily.

Helen entered the magazine business in an unusual manner. A group of her mother's friends, eight in number, who have been meeting ever since high school, were anxious to do something for Helen. They wanted to help her become independent. So without the knowledge of her family, they arranged for Helen to open a magazine service, a business she could conduct from her home. Of course, both Helen and her parents were delighted.

The business has now been in existence for three years and has been growing steadily. It has given Helen an interest in life and has kept her in contact with people, with the outside world. Her mother and father help her whenever they can.

Helen's chief hobby is singing. Her interest in singing was encouraged at the Spalding School and she studies now with her mother. Mrs. Jackson is well-equipped to help her daughter, having been a vocalist with the Wayne King band and also a member of a choral group called the "Chicagoettes." But that, as Helen says, "was long before her time." Mrs. Jackson's main interest now is her family—and Helen.

Helen's other hobbies are stamp collecting and television. Television, as her mother tells us, is the biggest. The Jacksons have had TV since 1946.

After Helen learns to walk again, she plans to study voice with a professional teacher. We expect that she will be as successful at this as she has been in the subscription business. She has learned to make her own way in the world, and success, once learned, becomes a habit.

Helen's neighbors will be rooting for her. So will we.

They Warned Me About TV

by TOMMY BARTLETT of WGN-TV

Everybody gave me a lot of warnings about how "different" TV would be, as if television technique were some deep, dark secret known only to a chosen few. I heard so much scare talk that I held back, waiting, looking, studying —hoping to stumble onto the mysterious magic that would solve everything.

My respect for television technicians was substantial before I ever took my first television step, and that respect grows stronger every day. The camera men, the lighting experts, the boom operator and the floor man can make almost anybody look good—and no super-star could really shine with inferior contributions from the technicians.

They have to know their stuff, and most of them are in that desirable frame of mind where they do know but are eager to learn lots more. They're willing to experiment, and they stay awake nights trying to think of ways to improve the shows they handle.

The one thing I've learned for myself is that there's no magic formula for the performer. Television is not, in my opinion, any subtle mystery requiring an entirely different approach.

In my own case, I've played to an audience for years. Five mornings a week, I try to pull a healthy reaction from my audience for "Welcome Travelers" in the College Inn at the Hotel Sherman. And on weekends, I've taken my audience participation road show to most of the major cities in the country.

Keeping a television audience alert and interested offers the same challenge that my radio shows have given me, and I'm trying to answer the challenge in just about the same way I've met it in radio.

No device is ever as interesting as people. If I can interview somebody with a good personality and a warm, human story, I'm going to have an audience. The true stories of real people have held top interest in every medium, down through the ages. The means of communicating those stories may change, but the basic appeal never does. Let me interview somebody who's triumphed over adversity and I'll take my chances on a good Pulse rating against any slick, polished, TV-trained performer who ever ogled a camera.

Zoomerang Queen

Connie Nuzum, 22-year-old Chicagoan, holds the title of Miss Zoomerang. The blue-eyed, blonde haired queen is currently seen on television demonstrating the toy sensation of 1950. Miss Nuzum attended New Trier high and Northwestern university, graduating with a degree in journalism. After school she became a writer and free-lance photographer on an Evanston newspaper. She is now travelling around the country explaining the Zoomerang to children.

This Laura Wins an Orchid

Laura Kozad of 5265 Homan, Hammond, Ind., was the first person to phone this magazine in the recent "Laura" stunt conducted by Channel One. She won herself an orchid corsage.

TV Wrestling Highlights

By ED PAZDUR

That one time famous wrestling Pole, Stanislaus Zbysko, who now lives comfortably at Old Orchard Beach, Maine, experienced his busiest summer in almost two decades. He came out of his hibernation to make a movie in London, England, with Mike Mazurki. He collected handsomely for his small part in "Night and the City," but "it cost me five of my teeth when Mazurki became a little too realistic in our playacting," says Stan.

Don Eagle's drawing power has not teetered one iota. At a recent match in an Ohio town (population of 5,000) he drew a $10,000 gate . . . George "Golden Greek" Macricostas revealed his home town as Chester, Pennsylvania . . . Several years ago while wrestling Joe Savoldi, Frank Sexton cracked his ankle while whirling Savoldi in an airplane spin and went on to win the match . . . One of the shortest wrestling matches on record: Al Williams lost to Verne Gagne in seven seconds flat, here in Chicago.

PAZDUR

According to some estimates, there are about 400 wrestling clubs operating in the U.S. . . . Aside to a reader: Yes, there is a girl wrestler with a cauliflower ear—Ann La Verne . . . TV fans may be surprised to learn that back in the 20's most wrestling was confined to theatres which featured burlesque . . . George Bothner, one of the most popular grapplers in that era, is reportedly still going great guns at the ripe old age of 80!

From Ringside: New TV set-owners watching wrestling for the first time are a bit amazed to hear Chicagoan Bobby Bruns is not only a grappler, but a lawyer. . . . The Sharpe brothers, Mike and Benny, turned professional wrestlers after a stint in the Royal Canadian Air Force during World War II. Now they're appearing on the west coast. . . . When Lou Thesz isn't wrestling, he spends a great deal of time breeding Doberman Pinschers.

Shower Room Talk: Angelo Poffo is making a big hit with Ohio and Pennsylvania wrestling fans. . . . He's well on his way to top billing on most wrestling cards. . . . To help strengthen his arms before a bout, Billy Parks walks around the dressing room on his hands. Try it. . . . Ned Taylor is an ardent Opera lover. Even wears a tux when the Met is in town.

From Arch Ward's "Wake of the News" column:

Grunt and GROAN!

The TV Forecast for Sept. 2 says: "Mothers, please note: That popular TV sport—wrestling—is considered by experts as an excellent body builder. It is superior to boxing since the brain is not as apt to become injured." What I want to know is . . . WHAT BRAIN?

—Cameo Kirby

Joe Marsh has just ordered a new $1,000 robe from set designer Ralph Alswung in New York . . . G.I.'s in Korea have named one of their tanks after Gorgeous George . . . Wonder why? There was a time when servicemen were admitted to theatres and shows free of charge but this courtesy fell into oblivion. We highly recommend local wrestling promoters admit G.I.'s as their guests to all matches.

RUFFY

Gals in the news: Mildred Burke, Queen of female grapplers, recently defended her title in Oklahoma City against Dot Dotson. She won in two straight falls . . . Nell Stewart, blond bombshell, is known to the trade as wrestling's Betty Grable . . . Helen Hild was a majorette at Omaha Tech during her high school days.

Man From Mars Expose!

"Mysterious" Zuma A College Student

The "mysterious" man from Mars, Zuma, seen on WGN-TV, no longer remains a mystery after a TV Forecast reporter was dispatched to identify the man from the unkown. Zuma left his rocket ship long enough to be spotted entering class at DePaul University where he is studying physical education. Enough "evidence" has been accumulated to point the finger at Carl Engstrom, 26, of 3839 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago.

When confronted by TV Forecast, Engstrom indignantly replied, "I'm flattered that you take me for Zuma. I've heard of him and they say he's a pretty good wrestler. The resemblance is amazing, but I assure that I am not Zuma!"

After more questions and more denials, it was learned that Carl practiced and trained for wrestling shows with Angelo Poffo, his former classmate who is currently making a hit at Columbus, Ohio. Carl discontinued his college education for "Adagio" dancing in which he participated as thrower and catcher. After touring the country, he returned to DePaul to complete his studies for a Bachelor of Science degree in physical education. As a student, Carl undertook extra-curricular activities as a varsity light-heavyweight boxer, winning two decisions in three matches under Coach Paul Mall. He won decisions over Scott Stanton of Illinois Western, Art Hughlett of Michigan State, and a TKO over Chris Jensen of Nebraska State.

"ENGSTROM"

"ZUMA"

A graduate of Lane Tech and in his senior year at DePaul, Engstrom is muscular, and possesses the basic knowledge and experience to become a first rate grappler. When referring to Zuma his eyes sparkle. "I wouldn't mind wrestling for a living if the pay was good. Some wrestlers are paid well but most of them are pushed around too much." Readers are invited to study the pictures and judge for themselves!

Coach Paul Mall, phy-ed instructor, regards Engstrom as one of the best coordinated athletes he's ever had the pleasure of coaching and admits "he can easily fill the bill as Zuma." Although Carl vehemently denies the fact, TV Forecast maintains Carl is the "mysterious man from Mars." About his future, Engstrom said, "After I get my degree, I'm going to coach, naturally!"

DEAR BOSS:

For the good of television, certain outstanding programs or personalities should be spotlighted if they have shown unusual showmanship. It is not the job of a critic to condemn only the bad, I'm sure we'll all agree, therefore with full realization that I am not able to speak about all shows on TV I want to give bouquets to a few that have captured my attention the past few weeks:

First, Beulah Karney—What's a man doing listening to a cooking show? Let me tell you. This gal Karney is not what you think. Pre-conformed ideas on an afternoon show for the girls should be dismissed. Karney, if she'll excuse me calling her such, is far from formal, never measures out a teaspoon of sugar, flour or salt, and frowns on people who do. Her concoctions are made with a shake, a sprinkle, and a prayer, and with results that outshine the laboratory methods of some stiff-heads. If I was single, I'd probably be parking outside Beulah's studio regularly, trying to date the gal. Love her!

Then there's Studs Terkel—They can switch his networks but no one will be able to switch the homey taste of his program. If ever you've been in Gus's restaurant (here in Chicago) you'll know wonderful joints like Studs' Place actually exist. Many times the situations are similar to experience in your own home. No false eyelashes, no makeup, net stockings, or falsies—just real life.

Ever watch Fats Pischon? You should, the man is boff! Pischon is not going to rock Chicago the first year—it may be three or four before his influence is felt, but remember old McCarthy's prediction—you'll succumb, and Fats wil be one of your top piano men, because he's real, which after all is a way of saying he's midwestern.
